Southside Center for Violence Prevention provides comprehensive information and direct services to survivors of sexual and domestic violence, such as crisis intervention and counseling, advocacy and accompaniment, resources and referrals, education, and safe emergency shelter. Since FY18, we have served over 100 victims and provided outreach and education to hundreds more community members each year using DCJS funds. In the first two quarters of FY21, we served 61 shelter and community clients and expect to serve at least an additional 40 victims in the next six months. With the pandemic, we were unable to attend outreach events, we had satellite offices closed to access for community clients, and at times had to restrict the number of clients we took into shelter; therefore; we hope the pandemic be resolved in FY22-23, in which case we expect our annual numbers to be approximately 150 victims per year, in addition to community outreach numbers. Based on FY21, 95% of our clients are underserved (rural); we

The Action Alliance will provide crisis intervention, support, legal advocacy and legal services to victims of sexual and domestic violence across Virginia through a statewide Hotline which offers phone, text and chat services and a legal services project titled the Project for the Empowerment of Survivors. Statewide victim services will focus primarily on those who are underserved due to geography, identity, lack of knowledge about local services or the complexity of their trauma and will work closely with community-based services across the state to connect victims with appropriate ongoing support. Statewide victim services will also be a resource for the 70+ local sexual and domestic violence agencies, answering local hotline when staff are unavailable and providing legal services as needed.

Break the Cycle Program effectively delivers emotional support and safety services, support, and mental health counseling to victims of domestic violence in Northern Virginia. Short-term services include crisis intervention, safety planning, information, referral assistance, and other basic services to victims taking the initial steps to break the cycle of violence. Long-term services include ongoing coordinated advocacy care (also called care management), social-connection support groups, and trauma informed mental health counseling that foster empowerment and the development of trusted connections. Break the Cycle's continuum of advocacy care meets clients wherever they are in the process of breaking the cycle of domestic violence and provide them the information, resources, guidance, and support to remain safe and vigilant in their journey. The total estimated amount of individuals receiving services during FY 2022-2023 grant period of performance is 354.

Grant Project Description

This project will fund 4.0 FTE attorneys, each of whom will provide comprehensive legal services to crime victims in 21 isolated Appalachian jurisdictions. In partnership with other service providers, our VOCA staff will provide victim-friendly legal representation to victims of domestic violence and sexual assault; to the elderly, including those who are victims of domestic violence and those who are exploited financially and otherwise; and to victims of child abuse and the grandparents or other relative caregivers who seek to provide the nurturing care, stability, and permanency these child victims need to move beyond adverse childhood experiences. We anticipate providing services to 700 victims each year, many of whom will require multiple services.

The primary target population of this project will be Vietnamese Americans in Northern Virginia where domestic violence has long been prevalent. The high incidence of domestic violence is compounded by significant barriers faced by Vietnamese victims when accessing mainstream domestic violence services. These barriers include limited English competency, cultural tolerance for abusive behavior, and fear of seeking assistance outside the family network. The ultimate goal of the CADV Program is to end the cycle of domestic violence among Vietnamese families and to empower and equip Vietnamese victims to lead self-sufficient, stable, and independent lives for themselves and for their dependents. This proposed project will have three components: (1) to incorporate trauma-informed practices into CADV at our Northern Virginia Branch; (2) to identify local providers of trauma-informed services for referral of clients; (3) to conduct community outreach and education on locally available trauma-informed services for victims of Project J will expand HCS's successful "Project Jane" initiative which provides services for victims of family/domestic violence, by removing barriers (including gender, age, and financial means) to make trauma focused services for victims and non-offending family members (including children) more readily accessible. Project J is a threefold effort to best meet the needs of domestic/family violence victims and family members that will include: evidenced based mental health assessment at treatment; comprehensive family support and advocacy; and community and provider education to best meet the needs of crime victims. It is estimated that approximately 400 victims/family members will be served through trauma assessments, evidence-based therapy interventions, and family support and advocacy. It is estimated that approximately 40 providers will be trained to provide evidence-based interventions to best meet the needs of crime victims and their families.

The YWCA Northeast Tennessee and Southwest Virginia is dedicated to eliminating racism, empowering women and promoting peace, justice, freedom, and dignity for all. In 2019, the YWCA Northeast Tennessee and Southwest Virginia created the YW CARES program to serve underserved victims, of any crime, between the ages of 17-24 in Sullivan County, TN. YW CARES provides necessary support and resources to help victims of crime identify and manage trauma. It is our goal to provide immediate, safe and compassionate care by providing victims with the tools they need to process their victimization and move forward toward successful adulthood. YW CARES has also grown to serving all victims of crime, regardless of age or victimization, after business hours within our community to include individuals with disabilities, LGBTQIA+, and those who are geographically isolated. This project is a replication of the successful YW CARES Program that is currently operating within Sullivan County, Tennessee. The project will

In order to address the lack of victim-centered restorative options for victim survivors of crime – those who do report the crime, those who don't report the crime and youth on school campuses – the Office of the Commonwealth Attorney proposes to undertake the development and implementation of a county-wide restorative justice program that provides direct services to victim survivors of crime and direct services to victims survivors of crime and harm on select Arlington Public school campuses. Direct services will include listening circles, community circles, healing and harm reduction circles, conferences, conflict resolution circles, victim / offender dialogues and circles of support and accountability. It is anticipated that 400 victim survivors will be served in the first fiscal year and 800 the second fiscal year. This project will build on and leverage the existing work of Restorative Arlington, which has developed a comprehensive, victim-centered, trauma-informed strategic plan with extensive input from a variety of stakeholders.
